

MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR EDUCATION

DR. STRAYER TALKS AT JUNIOR HIGH.

Presents Arguments in Support of Universal Education.

"What is an Education for Citizenship in a Democracy?" was the subject of Dr. George D. Strayer, president of the National Educational Association, who spoke at the Junior High School Monday night. After an introduction by Commissioner H. D. Huffaker, in which he brought out briefly just what the "N. E. A." has stood for, Dr. Strayer went right into his address.

In introducing his subject, he brought out that before the war German schools were run along the lines of "education for citizenship," but not for democracy, as they were under the ban of autocracy. He said that the pupils were merely cogs in the big machine and that they were not the kind of men that had been trained in America.

Dr. Strayer brought out the contrast of the two schools, where democracy ruled and the one where democracy was the keynote. The schools of democracy, he declared, create an attitude of sympathy and understanding. He then added that when those people would come to the schools should have, it was necessary to use certain instruments. For example, he said that no one could be a very good citizen unless he knows the English Bible and the same thing of a boy unless he knows his "Tom Sawyer." Dr. Strayer pointed out that the schools of America used to be narrow, and that the heads were willing to stop short with a little bit of geography, arithmetic and other studies. But he said that in recent years the schools have been expanding. "Why," he declared, "if people would know each other and how their neighbors lived, the great league of nations would have been accomplished."

Get People Interested.
Dr. Strayer emphasized the fact that the first obligation of the leaders is to get the people in the right attitude towards each other, as this is the basis of all one endeavor to accomplish. But, he continued, if the people are going to be developed, it is necessary to add to this the "trained intelligence."

"We've stressed so much the learning to read and write and paid so little attention to the use of it. We have given them the tools, but we haven't done enough to cultivate their intelligence," said Dr. Strayer, adding that it is important that the teacher give the child the opportunity to grow intellectually. For, he said, it is the kind of teacher back of that counts.

In speaking of the progress that

THE ARMY AND NAVY FOREVER!

Who won the war? The American army and navy! The Kaiser abdicated; but the boys in khaki and blue did the business! Here is the latest photograph of the two men who led them to victory—Secretary Newton D. Baker, of the war department, and Secretary Josephus Daniels, of the navy. The army and navy forever, and long may they wave!

has been made in the schools during the past few years, he referred to the movable chairs that made it possible for the pupils to work in a co-operative way instead of having to sit in a long row and look at the back of the other pupils' heads until they happened to be seated on the front row. Then, too, he said that the time had passed when the teacher called on the child to stand up with heels together and a book 18 inches in front of his nose and read something that every one else in the class knew by heart.

Education in England.
During the course of the war, Dr. Strayer stated, England made one of the most important steps that she has ever made by passing a bill providing that every boy and girl between the ages of 14 and 18 shall receive at least eight hours a week of schooling, and if working, that they go to school an hour each day in daylight on the employers' time. Another thing which he said was included in the bill was that all boys and girls that show unusual ability may stay in school all of the time until they have finished, regardless of economic conditions that might exist in their homes. They are supported by the government while in school. In this way, Dr. Strayer said, it is possible to get three times as many persons of unusual ability in a department of education as was organized and had the financial backing to go out and get these children and see to it that they are provided with the necessities of life and are permitted to have the advantage of schooling.

The speaker then touched on the Americanization of immigrants. After this, he brought out the fact that the program should include a health department, so well organized that every child having a physical defect would be corrected, and not merely have it listed on a health card without any follow-up work, as had been the plan in the past.

Inadequate Playgrounds.
In speaking of the playgrounds and athletic fields, Dr. Strayer said that he was going to say something that those present would probably not like. But he said as he walked around and viewed the various schoolhouses in Chattanooga, he found the thing that struck him most was the inadequate playgrounds, athletic fields, and the opportunity for the school children to have a chance to get sufficient exercise. "I was surprised when I began to look around for playgrounds," said Dr. Strayer, and he advised the members of the Parent-Teachers' association to get busy.

J. G. Burton, president of the Civic League of Junior High School, presided at the meeting, and after Dr. Strayer's talk, a reception was held for the members of the alumni of Columbia university.

Tonight! Take Dodson's Liver Tonic! Better Than Calomel for Liver

Calomel sickens! If bilious, constipated and head-achy, read my guarantee.

Listen to me! Take no more sickening, salivating calomel when bilious or constipated. Don't lose a day's work! Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bone. Calomel, when it comes into contact with your bile, crumbles into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if you are indigestive and making you feel miserable, I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste. (Adv.)

"LETTY" PLEAS

Miss Greenwood's Comedy Takes So Well It Is Coming Back Friday. The capacity audience which witnessed the presentation of "So Letty" last night at the Lyric, spent the evening in a continuous ripple of laughter. The offering, which so pleased Chattanooga theatre-goers, differs from the general run of musical comedies in that it is musical and a comedy, both the fun and the melody being of a lightness type, particularly gratifying right now.

There were a number of pleasant surprises in the comedy. Not least among these was the cast which made the piece so successful in its presentation. The removal of all the star, Miss Greenwood, has magnificently supported throughout, which naturally prevented the latter from lagging when the star is not on the stage.

AUTOS AMUCK

Series of Accidents Results in One Death.

Dead: Harold D. Bell. S. E. Goltzart. Fred Martin. W. Dethlefsen. B. Frank Sloan. Young lady, name not known. The above is a list of the casualties resulting from four automobile accidents which occurred Monday afternoon and evening.

Bell, 19 and residing at 301 Whiteside street, met a tragic death when an automobile in which he was riding struck the bridge which crosses Chattanooga creek on the Hooker road between Rossville and Alton. He was pinned beneath the car. Examination revealed that his head was crushed. Two young ladies and a young man are reported to have been in the auto with Bell. The car had been borrowed from Walter Duncan, of East Chattanooga, to whom it belonged.

The numbers of the St. Paul's church, "Reconstruction After the War" was the topic discussed by Men's League of St. Paul's church. The members of the St. Paul's Episcopal church gave three hours of interesting discussion at the parish house last night, following a dinner served by the guild, at which the members gathered for the entering on a new year's work.

There was a note of optimism in all the remarks made. It was felt that America was big enough and broad enough to handle any of its domestic problems, and that its influence internationally would be very powerful for the new order, which would give peace and help restore the world. Most of the speakers endorsed heartily the views of Woodrow Wilson, Lloyd George and others who were for a peace of justice and without revenge. A letter was read from Dr. W. J. Loring Clark, who is now in the Red Cross work in Scotland, in which he described in a vivid word picture the mourning and desolation which the war had brought to England, together with its determination to "carry on" which had so much to do with the victory.

The committee is a body organized to exercise supervision over the issuance of new stocks and bonds in order to avoid flooding the market with securities at a time when money was so badly needed to carry on the war. Some modification of existing rules is expected so that new business enterprises may be permitted.
